ABOUT US

Louth English was originally founded by Caoimhe O'Hare Siret and her husband Julian Siret after moving to Ireland from London where they worked and trained for many years in English language and Examinations in the number one British Council rated school in London, International House. They wanted to bring that experience home to Louth through their school by opening up opportunities for international students and teachers to study, learn and experience what the beautiful East coast has to offer.

All Louth English teachers are Cambridge CELTA qualified and have trained in International House London. Our exams preparation programmes include English language proficiency exams, university admissions testing and exams for healthcare professionals.

Accreditations include the Occupational English Test (OET), Cambridge Assessment Admissions Testing, LanguageCert and Cambridge Linguaskill. Louth English are the only establishment providing testing in the County Louth and surrounding areas.

The school's main goal is to provide a safe, open and inclusive learning environment where students can connect with others from all parts of the world, achieve their study goals and enjoy the Irish culture!
